Assistant Rector - All Saints Anglican Network, Launceston, Tasmania.

Full Time Position.

The All Saints Anglican Network (ASN) is seeking a dedicated follower of Christ to answer God's call to a full-time position to lead the largest of our Network churches and to function as the All Saints Network second in charge (Assistant Rector) in Launceston, Tasmania.

The ASN is a dynamic Anglican Network consisting of four small-to-medium sized evangelical churches with six congregations in the Launceston region of Tasmania. Established in November 2018, it began with the partnership of two historic parishes, and has since expanded to include two more parishes. While each church expresses the diversity of the Anglican tradition, they all share a common vision centred around Jesus. The ASN aims to make a meaningful impact on the Kingdom of Christ not only in the north of Tasmania but also beyond. Committed to nurturing and equipping disciples of Jesus, the network engages in diverse ministries. Passionate about mission and evangelism, the ASN supports cross-cultural missions financially and seeks to establish new churches in gospel-poor areas.

All Saints City, formerly known as St. John's Parish, has a rich history of over 200 years and has played a significant role in proclaiming the gospel, establishing churches, and engaging in mercy ministries. The church building itself, which has served as a place of worship for almost 200 years, holds a strategic location in the heart of Launceston City, surrounded by various local service providers, nonprofit organisations, and small businesses. All Saints City is a mid-sized church with three congregations, offering a range of worship styles from traditional prayerbook services at 8:00 am to a relaxed and informal gathering at 5:00 pm, including a monthly youth service. With an average weekly attendance of around 170 people and over 220 regular attendees, the church represents the breadth and diversity found within Anglican worship. St John's Church building is currently undergoing a significant internal renewal of approx. $1.7m.

The successful applicant will be a competent leader, with specific skill in strategic oversight, change management, and missional leadership. We are seeking to offer this person the opportunity to work with a passionate team of paid staff and volunteers to serve God's Kingdom here in Tasmania.
